

The Ultimate is Unforgettable

One Atlantic Events is Simply Perfect Down to the Smallest Ingredient

What would you say if I told you that the best catered event you'd ever host or attend was 100 yards out to sea over the Atlantic Ocean? Hovering over the choppy waves amidst the busy and sometimes tacky architecture of Atlantic City, floats a comparatively celestial haven. This one-of-a-kind venue is poised atop The Playground at Caesars, enveloped in a hype-chic ambiance and surrounded by floor to ceiling windows, showcasing unforgettable views of the beach boardwalk and skyline. Just being in this space is enough to inspire delight, but that is just a fraction of the elevated experience that One Atlantic Events brings to all of its custom events.

The catering at One Atlantic Events is somehow more impressive than the view. From hors d'oeuvres to enormous banquets, the Executive Chef works with each individual host to plan the perfect menu for that particular event, executing everything with outstanding skill and inspired passion. Flexing an eclectic repertoire of tastes, cuisines, and styles, Head Chef Bill Fausey has yet to encounter a host he couldn't encapsulate in a captivating menu. No two events are ever the same and they never fail to thrill guests with delicious surprises. Every bite is another page in a unique and important story, your story.

What is perhaps most impressive about Chef Fausey and the entire staff at One Atlantic Events, is that their ability to tell your story through the medium of food could make J.K. Rowling jealous. "People have asked us to replicate old family recipes and meals from treasured memories of traveling abroad, and we are always able to hit the mark," says Director Elizabeth McGlinn. The team at One Atlantic Events is not only capable of executing near-perfect offerings of their own, they are able to harness that talent and create the most intimate representation of the host, their family, their experiences, and their life. Imagine this: your most precious memory is when you and the love of your life got engaged over an unforgettable meal overlooking the Eiffel Tower. Years later, upon tying the knot under the majestic surroundings of One Atlantic Events, almost four thousand miles away, you experience the exact same dish, executed to an almost impossible level of similarity. Not only are you able to relive that memory, you are able to bring all your loved ones along with you to that special moment.

Their cuisine is so beloved, the staff will even have tastings for past hosts who want to come back and sample the food from an event they hosted previously. It's almost as if these people come back to be reunited with an exalted guest that was ushered into the event by Fausey himself. There is such a dedication to craft within One Atlantic Events that the food can literally take on a personality of its own, whether that is a representation of you and your loved ones or something completely new.

This dedication to creatively offering the very best is reflected in not just the space and the menu, but in the ingredients themselves. They even go as far as to have an in-house professional forager who works with local growers on everything from clam-digging excursions to strawberries planted and harvested specifically for an event. This is a level of commitment that is as commendable as it is uncommon. "What separates us is that everything we make is from scratch," says Head Chef Bill Fausey, "and we are a farm-to-table operation. We try to locally source all of our food ingredients and create everything, including our hors d'oeuvres, from scratch."

This thorough consideration also extends to their specialty cocktail service. An expert sommelier and renowned mixologist are just two of the passionate professionals who craft custom cocktails and devise food and wine pairings that are truly extraordinary. Whether showcasing offerings that are on the forefront of cocktail trends or a divine representation of the classics, your drink is sure to be as inspired as the view you take in while drinking it.

In a town defined by decadence, it's incredibly hard to stand out. With so much happening in Atlantic City, capturing the 'wow factor' is no easy charge for a host or event planner. One Atlantic Events is undoubtedly one of those rare experiences, a diamond among the semi-precious stones. It is impossible to gaze out from the roof-top terrace or look upon the amazing culinary displays and not be consumed by the majesty of it all. What sets this place apart from everything else in the city is that the grandeur and elegance is as much of the allure as the attention to detail. This is literally and figuratively the farthest away you can be from the rest of Atlantic City while still being in it, only 100 yards out to sea.
